HIS MORGAN LETTER THE TEXT.

An Important Amendment to the Philippines Amendment to Army Bill Adopted. Allegation of Lentz Caused Sensational Scene In the House.

Washington, Feb. 27.-An important amendment to the Philippine amend ment to the army appropriation bill was agreed to in the senate. It was an amplification of the amendment previously offered by Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, laying restrictions upon the sale of public lands and the granting of franchises and concesthe measure and is now a part of the committee amendment. Mr. Morgan of Alabama, continued his speech begun Monday, and occupied the floor during the greater part of the day. He appealed to the committee to withdraw both the Philippine and Cuban propositions, maintaining that con gress was treading upon dangerous ground and trifling with edged tools in acting on them without ample information.

Mr. Allen obtained the floor from Mr. Morgan for a time and severely arraigned Rear Admiral Sampson for some endorsements he is alleged to have made upon an application of Chief Gunner Charles Morgan, of the commissioned officer. Morgan afterward continued his speech.

Mr. Allen's denunciation of Admiral Sampson was sensational.

During the day the conference re port upon the District of Columbia appropriation bill was agreed to, as was also a partial report of the conferees on the postoffice appropriation

Allen Fiercely Attacked Sampson.

When consideration of the army appropriation bill was resumed, Mr. Morgan yielded the floor temporarily to Mr. Allen, of Nebraska. After saying that he was satisfied the Philippine amendment and the Cuban amendment to the pending bill were unconstitutional, and objecting to the conferring of such extraordinary power upon the president. Mr. Allenread a letter purporting to have been William T. Sampson, requesting him | ted to him, but he did not care to ac to forward to the navy department his application for promotion to the rank of ensign, under the provision of the pending naval appropriation bill. He also read the endorsement of Admiral Sampson, made upon the epplication of Gunner Morgan, in the course of which the admiral is represented as saying, in brief, that while he recognized Gunner Morgan's technical and professional ability, he was opposed to appointing warrant officers to the grade of ensign because they had not enjoyed the social advantages which Admiral Sampson held a commissioned officer of the navy should have enjoyed in order that he might represent properly his country, in foreign countries particularly. The endorsement of Admiral Sampson expressed the admiral's hope that the secretary of the navy would not find it necessary to recommend the promotion of warrant officers of the navy to the rank of com missioned officers. He said the endorsement proved beyond a shadow of doubt that there was "a snobbish aristocracy in the navy that is detrimental to the country, and a disgrace to the country represented by this officer and other like officers,"

Strong Epithets Applied.

"If William T. Sampson is the auther of those endorsements," declared Mr. Allen, with vehemence, "he is a conceited ass, and he ought to be marked down as such. For about an hour the storm raged, ending abruptly when an adjournment was taken, upon motion of Mr. Payne, the floor leader of the majority. # Coming naugural

With the pomp of military display, the roar of cannon, the crash of many bands and amid a great outpouring of the nation's dignitaries William Me-Kinley will on March 4 commence his second term as president of the United States. For r any days has the Capital City resounded with the noise of preparations for this event, and it may confidently be predicted that, granting that the weather conditions be favorable, the coming inaugural will surpass any of its predecessors in grandeur and extent of celebration.

The supreme moment of all this preparation will come when, shortly after noon on March 4, the president takes the oath of office. In the presence of a vast concourse of people intently watching the chief actors in the spectacle the president will repeat after Chief Justice Fuller the time honored "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States." Vice President Roosevelt will, according to custom, take the oath of office in the senate chamber, and the essential business of the inaugural will be over.

But there are other features of the inauguration of a president, unessential, it is true, but none the less imposing and well fitted to impress the spectators with a sense of the importance of the office. The two greatest have been and will be the grand parade and the inaugural ball. The former will of course march along the scene of so many similar pageants, Pennsylvania avenue.

Pennsylvania will have the largest representation in line. The entire three brigades of the national guard of the Keystone State, comprising 14 regiments, will be brought. Almost all of the other eastern states will be represented by their militia and some of the western, although there will not be as many national guardsmen from beyond the Mississippi as were hoped for, The number of civic organizations, marching clubs and the like that will be in line is very large and will help to swell the ranks to an enormous size. Nor will our regular army and navy be unrepresented. Colonel Percival C. Pope, commandant of the marines at Boston, will lead a detachment of 1,200

the grand marshal, and it is well that an old soldier, General Francis Vinton Greene of New York who has had much experience in such affairs, has been chosen for the post.

On the evening of the inauguration day, after the march of tramping thousands is stilled, the Capital City and its thousands of visitors will see a splendid display of fireworks. The pyrotechnic programme includes a large number of aerial pieces, among them the display in the air of the portraits done in fire of the president and vice president. The committee to supply the public with entertainment on the night of the inaugural has decided to have the exhibition of fireworks exclusively aerial, for the reason that set pieces are less satisfactory even at close sight and also because the high soaring fireworks may be witnessed comfortably by immense numbers without the annoyance of great crowds.

It is proposed to have at the inauguration a reception of all the governors who will be assembled at Washington. A number of these dignitaries have already signified their intention of being present, and others are expected. They will probably have set apart for them a place where they may receive those who wish to call and pay their re-

100,000 yards of bunting. Yards and yards of this material will be used to form canopies and flounces and to swathe the immense columns that support the roof of the building.

Great quantities of roses, other cut flowers and plants will be used in the decoration scheme, and the ballroom will present a scene of fairyland beauty. There will be two music booths, one for the famous Marine band, "the president's band," which will furnish the promenade music, and the other for a celebrated orchestra to discourse sweet sounds for the followers of Terp

Prince Frederick William of Prussia reached his majority last year, 18 being the accepted age for members of the Prussian royal family. He has made a good impression on the people of his own and other lands by his sober earnestness and thoughtfulness. It seems that he thoroughly realizes the responsibilities of his position and the burden of greatness that rests on him as the heir to a great empire.

A number of amusing stories are told of Frederick William's sense of importance during his younger days. Emperor William is said to have found him one day administering a sound beating to his next younger brother. Prince Eitel, because the latter would not recognize his superiority as crown prince. It is further said that the kaiser took the same method of impressing on his son and heir the inferiority of the crown prince to the actual occupant of the Princess Margaret of Connaught, five months older than her reputed future fiance, is a very charming, pretty and popular girl. The match would be well liked in Germany, for the Duckess of Connaught is the daughter of Prince Frederick Charles, the popular "Red Prince," secand cousin of the kaiser.

PERILS OF SEA TRAVEL DURING THE COLD AND STORMY MONTHS.

Gales, High Sens, Derelie's and Icebergs & Few of the Dangers to Be Encountered - Some Recent Instauces-What a Comber Did.

When old Boreas gets his back up | and starts to smash things in his favorite field of operations, the broad ocean, during the cold and windy months of . winter, it is time to batten down hatches and for all those who can to seek shelter below. The north wind and the raging sea are no respecters of persons or of the puny inventions of man and would as soon vent their rage on a proud and haughty transatlantic liner as on the humblest fishing dory.

The perils of the ocean in winter are many. The gale, the high running seas, whose might neither steel nor wood may withstand; the derelict, to strike which means a hole in a ship's bottom; enormous icebergs-these are only a few. No wonder that the captain of a great ship remains often for 48 hours on the bridge, ice coated and famishing. The enormous responsibility that rests on the executive officers of a liner turns them gray years before their time. And still the keenest watchfulness often cannot avert disaster. Those who go down to the sea in ships only too! frequently find that their trained eyes and nerves are of no avail against the unforeseen and unavoidable peril that rises suddenly.

Although this winter has witnessed only one great disaster, the sinking of the German schoolship Gneisenau off the Spanish coast, minor accidents have been sufficiently numerous. The Spartan Prince, from Naples and Genoa, struck the Spanish coast near Gibraltar lately and will probably be a total loss. Luckily the passengers and crew were taken off in time. The Spartan Prince belonged to the well known Prince line and was a vessel of 2,170 weather that injured some of her pipes. The steamship Kura recently arrived in port at Philadelphia after experiencing the full force of a storm on the Atlantic in which the engines were stopped and she was compelled to drift for some time. During the storm a wave struck the vessel which swept completely over her and carried away 18 feet of her funnel. The wave, according to the officers, was of such remarkable height as to cause astonishment even among the oldest seamen on

The sweeping overboard of persons by waves that break over the decks of steamers is of frequent occurrence, There is no possible guard against it if [ one is caught, for the mighty onrush of the water is irresistible, and no human grasp on rail or fitting will withstand the shock. A young woman passenger on the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiserin Maria Theresa had a narrow escape from such a fate the other day. Although the ship was running through a heavy sea, she was promenading the deck with a few other women passengers. A sea crest broke aboard and swept her against the rail, and had it not been for the coolness and courage of another passenger who waded to her rescue she would have been swept overboard beyond hope of rescue.

It would be pleasant to chronicle & romance as a result of this; but, unfortunately for such a purpose, the resaned woman is a French lady's maid. while the rescuer is a young New York mülionaire.

Rheumatism

Rheumatism is one of the diseases that medical science don't seem able to cure. One professor says one thing about it and another professor says another thing. And all the time people keep on suffering terribly. Now, what's the use of wasting words arguing the matter? Why not get some Omega Oil and try that? Rub it into your poor feet or legs or arms or shoulders. Plenty of people have cured themselves in this way, and that ought to be proof enough that it will cure you too. It is an unusual liniment and does unusual things. It is good for everything a liniment ought to be good for.

All druggists sell Omega Oll, or can get it for you of any jobber if they want to. If your druggist refuses to sell you this liminent that stops pain, the Omega Chemical Co., 257 Broadway, New York, will mail you a bettle, prepaid, for 50c. in cash, money order or stamps.

HE HAS ENOUGH MONEY.

Extraordinary Determination of Young St. Louisan.

Probably the most remarkable young man in the United States is Russell E. Gardner of St. Louis, who has just announced publicly that he has enough money and deesn't intend to hustle for more. And this is all the more remarkable since Mr. Gardner is not even a millionaire, and his "pile," to use the vernacular, looks "like 30 cents" when compared to the holdings of Rockefeller or Carnegie. In short, Mr. Gardner has amassed a fortune of $250,000 by his own exertions and intends to stop

Mr. Gardner will not retire from trade, but will simply not try to extend his business. He agreed with himself some time ago that he needed a certain sum for his own income, and any surplus that accrues a ve that is to be divided among his employees, of whom he has about 350. Mr. Gardner proved his sincerity recently by thus giving away $10,000.

Mr. Gardner says that his purpose now is to shake off care and enjoy life. He was born on the Mississippi river and is in love with the muddy stream. He has bought a yacht and intends to spend much of his time on the river with his wife. He is not going to Eu rope for pleasure. The Mississippi valley is good enough for this American. Mr. Gardner intends to see every bit of the Father of Waters, from St. Paul to the gulf of Mexico. He is going up and down the river and into its tributaries, hunting, fishing and just boating.

ROYAL LOVE MATCH.

Results in Wedding of Princess Mercedes With a Bourbon Cousin.

Although there is a general and well founded belief that most royal marriages are arranged to suit the convenience of politics rather than by Dan Cupid, occasionally the little blind god gets a chance at princes and princesses. This seems to be the case in the marriage of Dona Maria Mercedes, princess of the Asturias and elder sister of the young king of Spain, and her distant cousin, Don Carlos de Bourbon, son of the pretender to the throne of Naples. The match was strongly opposed by the cortes, or parliament of Spain, on the ground that the princess should wed some one who would add strength to the dynasty, which needs all the support it can get. This Don Carlos assuredly cannot give. He is not the celebrated Don Carlos, the pretender to the Spanish throne, but is distantly ever, also been engaged in plots against the present dynasty, and it is said that the Court de Caserta, father of the young man, dare not enter Spain for fear of arrest. It is an anomalous position for the father-in-law of a Spanish princess.

Don Carlos was educated in Spain and is a captain in the army of Alfonso XIII. He will be elevated to the rank of an infante, or royal prince.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1901

The first term of President McKinley ends with the present week. The judgment of the American people regarding the quality of the history which it has mide was significantly expressed last November.

In his recent speech at the Transpor tation club dinner Senator Chauncey M Depew ably condensed into one sentence the great argument in favor of the ship subsidy bill: "It secures transportation in our own vessels for the goods and products of which we have more to sel. than all the rest of the world can pro

It is satisfactory to note that answers received by the state department from all the nations before which this government laid its views in regard to the proposed military expedition of Count Von Waldersee to Sian Fu. the temporary residence of the Chinese court, show that nearly every power agrees of good faith with the Chinese while polls. peace negotiations were being conducted. The burden of the responses of the powers is that the expedition is "not necessary or desirable.

The beautiful harbor of San Francisco is a safe one except when there are heavy togs on the coast. Had the captain or the pilot, or whoever was in charge of the ill-fated steamer Rio De Janiero at the time of the accident waited at the harbor entrance for the dense curtain of fog to lift before attempting to make the port, the ship and scores of lives might have been saved. Whatever may be the findings of the investigation which will be held in San Francisco this week, and on whoever the blame may be fixed, one important lesson will have been gained by the catastrophe. Some one was in too much of a hurry to realize what terrible chances he was taking in bringing a heavily laden craft into harbor through a dense fog. With some one on hoard the Rio De Janeiro impatience triumphed over discretion.

Canton-Massillon Electric Railway Company, recently, the proposition of building a line from Massillon to Navarre was discussed, and it is said that there is strong probability of this being done, though no definite information as to the company's intentions has been made public.--Canton News Democrat.

The News Democrat has unintentionally made a misstatement. Information as to the company's intentions has been made public upon several occasions. The last of these was the annual ban quet of the Massillon board of trade at which President William A. Lynch made an authoritative statement regarding his company's obligations in this matter. Work on the construction of the electric line from Massillon to Navarre, Mr. Lynch said, would be begun this spring as soon as the weather would permit, presumably as soon as the frost was out of the ground.

No finer tribute has ever been paid to the friend of human rights and human liberty who is just now entering for a second time upon a four years' tenure as President of the United States, than that contained in the speech of Senator John M. Thurston at the annual banquet of the American Protective Tariff League. Mr. Thurston had re asserted the well known truth that providence has given the American people a great leader in every time of emergency. He continued:

'When it became necessary to launch a thunderbolt against kingly rule, it gave us Thomas Jefferson; when it became necessary to successfully compete on the field of battle in order that independence might be gained, it gave us George Washington; when it became necessary to formulate and establish a great national system of revenue and finance that would make us successful in time to come, it gave us Alexander Hamilton: when it became necessary to put the spirit of national unity into the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, it gave us John Marshall when it became necessary to make lib erty a meaning and not an idle question, it gave us Abraham Lincoln; when it b came necessary to settle for the Union the mightiest conflict of ancient o modern times, it gave us Ulysses S. Grant; when it became necessary to make the protettive tariff of the United States a thing settled forever, to place upon an eternal basis our financial credit and our monetary system, and to meet the warlike epoch of the close of the Nineteenth century in a mast rly way, it gave us that great man who is now our President, William McKinley, of

THE BILLION DOLLAR TRUST.

The notable coincidence of the imosition of discriminating duties by the Russian minister of finance upon the imports into Russia of American manufactures of iron and steel, and the consolidation of the leading fron and steel companies into one great corporation with, as is officially stated, over a billion dollars in capital and bonded indebtedness, is used as a text by Philip King, in SUPT. WRIGHT MAY RESIGN an article on the financial situation for a discussion of the question as to whether or not the big corporation referred to is desirous of extorting higher prices for its products in our own markets than it charges in foreign ones and of using the tariff as a club for that purpose. "It this is the purport of this great combination," he says, "it has been conceived in wickedness and folly and it will meet with a disastrous end which will most gravely affect the prosperity of the whole country."

Such, however, from Mr. King's as well as most other conservative points of view, is by no means certain to be the case. It is more probable that those in control of the new steel company will be guided by that sagacity which instinctively attends creative genius in the modern concentration and consolidation of business, and will therefore sell iron and steel in their own country as they do anywhere, put their business solely on its merit, abandon all the extraneous strength which a protective tariff gave to them as an infant industry and let it be seen that the one purpose of the great new company is to secure the markets of the world in clear pursuance of this country's obvious destiny. In this event the enterprise will have none of the sinister importance that its enemies are endeavoring to give to it, and should receive welcome and aid in with the United States in holding that every forum where the people speak, in the expedition would constitute a breach | newspapers, in congress and at the

MASSILLON SHOULD PROGRESS

In piping times of prosperity like the present, 'most individuals are looking out for themselves and pushing themselves along. What is good policy for a man should also be good for a city. There are certain things which the city must have. We are building busithem protected from fire. We want them to be occupied by merchants and them by electric railroads from Fulton, Dilton, East Greenville and Navarre We want more paved streets, and we want all the streets kept clean. We want a city building, a city hospital. We can't have all these things at once, but the needs of a growing city should never be lost sight of. The thermometer is not far above the zero mark at present. but in three weeks spring will be upon us. The period of development in nature should excite a corresponding elevation of spirit in the minds of patriotic citizens-a desire to achieve growth, thrift and the highest degree of municipal prosperity.

Education in Porto Rico. The expense of maintaining schools in Porto Rico is very high, if we consider the amount spent for the small number of pupils enrolled; but as that country is gradually brought in closer touch with our own, their system will evident ly be changed, until it reaches our present state of perfection. In this country the people are being educated to the fact, that there is a sure cure for dyspepsia, indigestion, consumption, liver and kidney troubles, and that medicine is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It should be taken at the very first symptom, if you would avoid unnecessary suffering. It will give prompt relief and eventually cure, as hundreds of people, including many prominent phyicians, have testified during the past

Workmen are now engaged in connecting the court house and jail with the natural gas mains. The commissioners hope to relieve the public from a great volume of smoke which constantly pours forth from the county building stacks, and which has been doing much damage to goods in business houses. Large gas burners will be put in the boiler fire boxes, where other fuel was burned, to furnish heat for the radiators.

It is said that School Superintendent O. A. Wright is likely to get a position under the present administration, the location being in Cuba. It is known that Mr. Wright and President McKinley are warm friends. The President attended a social function at the home of Mr. Wright while here last fall, and it is said that the latter has assurances that he will be taken good care of if he desires to accept a position. It has been known for some time that Mr. Wright has been considering severing his connection with the Canton schools.

The Hon. Mr. Howells, besides being a native of Wales, was for several years the United States consul at Cardiff, and his statements were all based on facts obtained upon personal observation and investigation. Mr. Howells said that the Cardiff product stands as high in the world of steam coals as Patti does in the world of song, or Shakespeare in the world of Loetry.

"We often read in the newspapers," said Mr. Howells, "what wonderful strides we are making in marketing iron, steel and coal, and that we are beating Great Britain out of markets; that she has always held, being able to undersell the British, etc. The fact is He Makes Away Upon Hearing of the we are not taking any coal markets from Great Britain, and never will; we are merely filling up the gaps and holes that Great Britain is unable to supply; for instance, when the steam coal of South Wales is selling today at from $6 to $6.50, f. o. b., at Cardiff, what do the operators there care what American coal will be shipped, and at what price, as long as they have a market for all the per ton and then make a profit.

in the business. Chief Engineer S. G. Swigart is in the city and with him is Attorney T. W. Wakeman, of Akron, who is in charge of the right of way department for the proposed line. The road will be built by the Northern Ohio Traction Company, who are the owners and operators of the Akron, Bedford & Cleveland electric railway and the Akron city lines. H A. Everett. of Cleveland, is the president. William Christy, of Akron, is vice president and general manager; J. R. Nutt, of Akron, treasurer. They have secured the right of way through Summit county. The road will not run over the highways, but will be a direct one from Akron to this city, and will give Massillon direct connection with Cleveland. Mr. Wakeman stated today that the company did not intend to peddle the right of way, but that the company had capital and meant business. They do not intend to touch the small towns. The line will be about twenty miles long. It will touch the east side of Turkeyfoot lake and will enter this city from the northeast, in the neighborhood of Front street. The company at the present time is constructing three lines in Ohio and one in West Virginia. It is the purpose to get the Akron-Massillon line in operation as soon as possible. The question of right of way which is so great an obstacle in the building of some lines amounts to little in this case as it will be purchased.

We are asked whether the smoke of soft coal is injurious to vegetation. It is and decidedly so. While this smoke undoubtedly acts as a protection to some extent against some forms of insects and pests and the sooty deposits are essentially a fertilizer, the large amount of poisonous and foul gases liberated is almost fatal to vegetation in what may be termed a smoky local ity. Some day perhaps science will enable man to utilize these gases as fuel instead of liberating them to destroy vegetation and vitiate the atmosphere.

ONE WAY TO KEEP A BOY.

If you have a nice boy and you would like to keep him to help you on the farm and your wife has what she calls a company bedroom nicely carpeted, furnished and decorated, while the boy sleeps in the attic with the hired man. vou just give that boy that bedroom for his use and when night comes tel! your company to go home and come again next day, or else give them your own room, and you go to sleep in the attic. The sure way to keep a boy is to not like a little heathen. You will find it vasily easier to retain your company than it will be to retain your boy.

RARE WOODS.

It has been frequently stated that the tsland possessions recently acquired by this country are very rich in fancy and valuable woods. It is well to bear in mind that the searcity of a thing very largely determines its value. If the Tagalos bridge their mountain streams with mahogany logs, it indicates the abundance and cheapness of this variety of timber. When a thing becomes common, it always becomes cheap and unfashionable. The rich want rare things and are willing to pay big prices mous fortunes writing for those who think of handling these fancy woods of

We saw over 5,000 tops of bay in the stack, tame and wild, during a trip across the country lately Every ton of this hay which is not spoiled is worth $7 in the stack. Of the large number of so called stacks containing this hay we saw but two which had been built in a manner to properly protect the contents from the weather. These two stacks had about 20 tons apiece in them, were well and symmetrically built, carefully topped out after they had settled and were in shape to keep hay as well as it is possible to outside of a barn. The rest of this large lot of valuable forage was piled up in all sorts of imaginable shapes in low flat piles containing a couple of tous and up, the best cared for of the lot giving a loss of from 20 to 30 ner cent. The moral hazard associated with the issuance of policies on farm property by farmers' mutual insurance companies is not considered an important factor as it is with other ordinary lines of insurance business. Still it should not be wholly ignored, for there are some moral degenerates busy milkcountry just as there are apostates in the cities seeking insurance on a stock of hand me downs Two or three cases which have come to our notice illustrate in a plain way the native incenutty displayed by the granger in working his brother grangers in this matter of mutual insurance. One collected the value of a lot of hay from a railway company whose engine caused the fire and then turned round and collected the value of the bay a second time from the farmers' insurance company of which he was a member, another got the renewal of his policy dated back by a local agent so as to cover a loss sustained, and a third was able to swap an old house for a new one by

The purport of a house furnishing article in The Designer, from which some extracts are here made, is to supply readers with information of what is good taste in such lines, not only in costly articles, but others that are within the reach of the very limited pocketbook. The back was nailed to the divan, then a cotton mattress made to fit, a soft wadding of the cotton being also applied to the interior of the chair back, after which denim in an art shade of blue was used to upholster the entire article. A deep box plaiting of the denim hides the legs of the divan, and the material is carried over both the outer and inner parts of the

In shape it is most artistic and, wonderful to relate, comfortable as well, for it is a regrettable fact that many things which are artistic are far from being either comfortable or practical. The chair shown is made of gilded wood and has a seat of pale blue satin. Others of the same design are of rosewood and others still of enameled wood with raised scrolls of silver or gold. The Roman chair makes a very acceptable substitute for the delicate gold reception chair which has been in fashion for several years and is not only more comfortable, but more substantial.

Carr's New Book. Woman's gossip smirenes, but that of So Says Mrs. Van Rensselaer a man stains indelibly.

The greatest test of feminine beauty is a sea voyage.

Woman's love is a paradoxical compound of self sacrifice and selfishness. True love is an equal blending of the senses and the soul.

On occasion knowing what one wants is as difficult as getting it. The love of a woman gives much, but as a rule exacts more. Some people take such excellent care of their consciences that they never use them. If you don't bore children and old yourself.

There are times when the mysteries of life seem greater than the mystery of death.

The people who always say "just what they think" seem mostly to have mighty unpleasant thoughts. The most trenchant of observations are made by those who have ceased hoping and taken to remembering. Being in love is a woman's normal state, quite as often with herself as with some one else. About the best way to retain your ideal of a lover is to let him become another woman's husband.

He found to his surprise that the intense hear novelties for 1901 is the Roman chair had broiled the chop or steak more quickly than did the range in his own house. It occurred to him that a chophouse fashioned like a blacksmith's shop would be an extraordinary novelty. He thought the matter over and evolved many details. At last he protected his ideas by copyrighting and patenting whatever he could. The project, as it now stands, involves the lmitation of a smithy for a restaurant.

The forges, worked with automatic bellows, are employed for preparing steaks, chops, etc. The anvils are hollowed and inside of the horns have a faucet from which liquors can be drawn at will. Steel bars are really bollow tubes through which mineral waters, wines and other fluids can be drawn from barrels hidden in the garret or connected by a force pump with the cellar. A wooden horse serves as a closet, in which bread and rolls can be kept warm and fresh for hours at a time. The plates are made of wood, but resemble pieces of a blacksmith's

Among the pronounced opinions she has brought back is the belief that Queen Victoria was an overrated woman. #### FAMOUS RACING TROPHY.

Woodlawn Vasc to Be Run For at Morris Park Call Meeting.

A "classie" turf trophy, the old Woodawn vase, after serving as the prize in many a spirited race without the orignal conditions having quite been ful-Illed, has been purchased by the Westthester Racing association, and it will be added to the Morris park autumn weight for age race at 2¼ miles, says the New York Sun. The first closing tf entries is on Feb. 12, the second on Aug. 15, when the conditions under which the vase is to be run for will be announced. The history of the Woodlawn vase includes the last period of racing in the south "befo' the wah," its revival in Kentucky after the conflict and the "palmy days" of the sport at Sheepshead Bay and Jerome park. The trophy was made for R. A. Alexander of Woodburn, Ky., in 1860, who presented it to the Woodlawn Association of Louisville, to be run for at four miles and to be won three times before becoming the property of the winner. Captain T. G. Moore, with Mollie Jackson and Idlewild, scored two wins in 1861, the first races held for the cup. The war forced a suspension of racing at Louisville until 1866, when the trophy was raced for again, generally resulting in "walkovers" for Mr. Alexander, although General Abe Buford had a win and it was added to the Great American Stallion Stakes of 1878 and won by horse. In 1883, at Sheepshead Bay, in highland lucubrations into shape for with Eole, but the Dwyers won it back Mrs. Cruger has come to see her wins of Miss Woodford. It was last in 1884 and 1885 with the successive Mr. Dwyer sold the vase, one of the most handsome specimens of the silversmith's art made in this country, to the

PATENT SELF INDUCTION COILS.

By Menns of Them Conversation Will Be Made Easy Between New York and London-Patent Right Was Sold For Half a Million Dollars and Liberal Royalty Before Being Put Into Practical Use.

According to the opinion of patent experts, the most important invention for several years is the system of reactant or self induction coils, by which the usefulness of the telegraph, the ocean cable and the telephone is increased not less than tenfold. In other words, they protect the telephone and telegraph wires from natural interferences and remove natural obstructions. It will be very expensive to put them in, but the economy in maintenance will soon pay for them.

New York, Feb. 27.-A la ge proportion of the dealings in the stock market again centered in the steel stocks. The official statement issued by the banking house having the negotiations for consolidation in charge, giving the terms of the exchange of the securities of the present companies into those of the proposed new company, dashed all the speculative enthusiasm over the steel stocks. As all of the stocks get from par to 125 per cent of the new securities in the exchange, with additional benefits in some cases, it is clear that on a basis of equal value for the properties concerned the new stocks should sell lower than the average prices of the present stocks.
